

LONE AMERICAN FROM SAIGON

FEB. STRANGERS REACH THAT PART OF INDO-CHINA.

It has been Seven Years and He Thinks It One of the Most Beautiful Cities of the East. French Have Made It a Little Paris. Wonderful Ruins.

The entire American population of Saigon, French Indo-China, was gathered here yesterday. There is only one American here, but he has been living in the city for seven years, but he insisted that he was not used, and upon that condition he told something about that part of the world.

Saigon is visited by few travelers, and it is not largely upon the postcard business that the French make their money. The only route to reach Saigon from Hongkong or Singapore. The route usually passes Saigon by, making one of the prettiest cities in the world.

Saigon is well away from the old native town and is laid out with beautiful wide streets. There are three American firms doing business here, and the number of Germans is quite large, but there are no English firms, although there are two English banks, the employees of which and myself constitute the total English speaking colony, numbering from ten to twelve. In the white town there are between 7,000 and 10,000.

Life in Saigon is very much like that of Paris on a smaller scale. There are the cafes and the terraces, and we have a magnificent opera house that must cost as much as $350,000, gold. It is not out by the Government on a contract, and the lease not only gets a subsidy of $50,000 francs a year from the Government, but the French colonialists are very keen on football, and they have two kinds of it. There are lots of soldiers, there being barracks all over the place.

Indo-China comprises Tonquin, Annam, Cochinchina, Cambodia and Laos. Of these Cochinchina, in which Saigon is situated, belongs to France, and is a protectorate over the other countries. Not many travelers except French go to that part of the world. The principal trade is in rice, the principal port of the world, exporting 1,000,000 tons a year. Cochinchina is mainly a delta, and there are lots of mangrove swamps and the soil is very rich.

The French have lately completed a railway from Haiphong, the port of Tonquin, up through Hanoi, which is the capital of Indo-China, and up into Yunnan, the capital of the Chinese province of that name. It is about 400 miles long. The whole country is divided into provinces, each of which has its capital, containing a French quarter, with good houses, fine lights and good roads. The whole country is a beautiful tropical country, with a hot climate, and a thick jungle.

Up there there are a good many of what we call "primitives" though they do not use the phrase of southern China. These are desperadoes that live in the jungle, and they give the police a lot of trouble.

Their chief is a man called Delhan, who some years ago was such an active citizen on the jungle trails that the Government thought they would be a gain by having him off. So for many years they paid him a subsidy, and to have been as much as $15,000 a year, to keep quiet and be good.

There came a time, however, when the Government got tired of handing over the sum to Delhan, and decided it would be better to pay him a smaller sum, and to have him off. So Delhan was informed that his checks would no longer be honored at the banks, and it was no use for him to come to the banks to get his money. They crossed off his account, and decided to exterminate him and his band for good. But they have been at it for a year, and he has not been killed. He is still circulating about in his hideout.

The natives of the country are more like the Chinese than Malays, but they are more like the Chinese in their habits. The country is largely in the hands of Chinese. Some of those sovereigns down there are kept up as figuresheads. There is a king of Cambodia, a king of Laos, and a king of Siam, but they are all kept up as figuresheads. They are all kept up as figuresheads. They are all kept up as figuresheads.

The natives of the country are more like the Chinese than Malays, but they are more like the Chinese in their habits. The country is largely in the hands of Chinese. Some of those sovereigns down there are kept up as figuresheads. There is a king of Cambodia, a king of Laos, and a king of Siam, but they are all kept up as figuresheads. They are all kept up as figuresheads. They are all kept up as figuresheads.

The natives of the country are more like the Chinese than Malays, but they are more like the Chinese in their habits. The country is largely in the hands of Chinese. Some of those sovereigns down there are kept up as figuresheads. There is a king of Cambodia, a king of Laos, and a king of Siam, but they are all kept up as figuresheads. They are all kept up as figuresheads. They are all kept up as figuresheads.

The natives of the country are more like the Chinese than Malays, but they are more like the Chinese in their habits. The country is largely in the hands of Chinese. Some of those sovereigns down there are kept up as figuresheads. There is a king of Cambodia, a king of Laos, and a king of Siam, but they are all kept up as figuresheads. They are all kept up as figuresheads. They are all kept up as figuresheads.

GRACE'S KENTUCKY FUTURITY.

Colorado E. Defeated for the First Time.

LAKESIDE, N.Y., Oct. 4.—Under cloudy skies, with a stiff wind blowing in the homestead, the eighteenth renewal of the classic Kentucky Futurity was won today by Grace, a daughter of Peter the Great and a sister of the late Kentucky Futurity champion, Colorado.

The son of the Bondsman and Bess McGregg made a brave effort, but the race was in the first two heats proved too much for him. In the third heat, Colorado was again defeated for the first time in his career. The race was one of the most exciting Futurities witnessed here in years. Colorado was the favorite, and he was the only one to win the first two heats.

GRACE'S KENTUCKY FUTURITY.

Colorado E. Defeated for the First Time.

LAKESIDE, N.Y., Oct. 4.—Under cloudy skies, with a stiff wind blowing in the homestead, the eighteenth renewal of the classic Kentucky Futurity was won today by Grace, a daughter of Peter the Great and a sister of the late Kentucky Futurity champion, Colorado.

CHASE COMES TO THE RESCUE

CHANGES PITCHERS AND TAKES THE PLACE OF WOLTER.

Then Knight Doubles With the Bases Filled and Puts the Hillmen Safe Ahead of the Washingtons—Champion Athletics Again Defeats Boston.

By defeating the Washingtons at the Hilltop yesterday the Highlanders wound up the series with that team and won it, 15 games to 7. Chase's men also increased their advantage over the Detroiters in the struggle for second place in the American League and now lead the Tigers by three points. The latter were prevented from paying the Clevelanders by rain. The champion Athletics won another ball game, the Boston Red Sox scored their 100th victory. The Hub team has no further chance to finish better than fourth. The results:

New York, 8; Washington, 5.
Philadelphia, 3; Boston, 1.

STANDING OF THE CLUBS.

| W. | L. | P. | W. | L. | P. |
|--------------|----|----|----|----|----|
| Philadelphia | 10 | 10 | 10 | 10 | 10 |
| New York | 10 | 10 | 10 | 10 | 10 |
| Boston | 10 | 10 | 10 | 10 | 10 |

NEW YORK, N. Y., WASHINGTON, D. C.

Hal Chase, as manager of the Highlanders, showed some good judgment in the game with the Washingtons yesterday on the hill. He substituted Warhop for Pitcher Jack Quinn at the proper time, and also got the game turned in Washington's place at a critical moment. These moves doubtless saved the Hillmen from another defeat and delighted a holiday crowd of 7,000 fans, who had plenty of excitement.

Incidentally it may be said that the New Yorks were partially helped to the victory by the weird pitching of Moyer, a green youngster, in the first two innings, as four runs were earned before he was replaced by Walter Quinn, who was hit hard in the sixth inning and for a time the visitors looked extremely dangerous, but when Warhop took up the task he soon held them tight. Chase helped to clinch the game, when he pulled the bases with a well timed scratch in the sixth inning. Then Knight made the victory sure by knocking out a two-bagger which sent everybody home.

Mathewson, Wilson and Arlie Latham, representing the Giants, pitched every inning closely. Kid Eberfeld didn't show up and the visitors had to be rearranged. After driving a single to center in the first inning Milan was caught napping by Quinn. Latham then pitched a clean two-bagger to left which surely would have scored Milan, but Quinn pulled himself together and struck out Summerville.

Moyer started off by handing a pass to Daniels and then hitting Hemphill. Wolter put up a fly for Milan, and Knight hit a pitched ball, filled the bases. On Gardner's sacrifice fly to Ralston Daniels raced home, and then Chase struck a base hit to center. Hemphill then reached the plate from second base. But Milan threw the ball like a rifle shot squarely into Street's hands and Hemphill was out on a close decision.

LOUISVILLE RACES.

Princess Callaway Wins Two-Year-Old Race Easily.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Oct. 4.—The races at Churchill Downs today were run over a sloppy track. Just before the first race a terrific rainstorm broke over the track and the 2,000 spectators in the stands were almost drenched. In the autumn season, Governor Gray, the best colt in the West, declined the honor of being the first to start. He was returned an easy winner. Thomas had the right and got a five length lead over the first runner, a colt named Shiloh. Shiloh was under a strong pull all the way and won by a margin of 10 lengths from Labord.

MARLBORO RACES BEGIN.

Jockey Sattel Set Down for Bad Ride in Steeplechase.

BATIMORE, Md., Oct. 4.—The ten day meeting of Marlboro Fair Association opened this afternoon with a large attendance. The public did not begin the meet. The first race was a four furlong race for two-year-olds. The first choice was defeated. Diabolo, the odds on favorite for the steeplechase, was beaten by a wide margin. The first choice was defeated. Diabolo, the odds on favorite for the steeplechase, was beaten by a wide margin. The first choice was defeated. Diabolo, the odds on favorite for the steeplechase, was beaten by a wide margin.

MORAN AND MOORE DRAW.

Feinting and Hugging the Features of Twelve Round Bout.

BOSTON, Oct. 4.—The much talked of bout between Owen Moran of England and Pat Moore of Philadelphia at the Army Athletic Club here was a draw. The referee (Harley White of New York) at the end of the twelfth round. The encounter was a disappointment to the spectators, who had expected a more exciting fight. The two boxers feinted for openings about half the time and hugged each other during the remainder. Some blows were exchanged, but both boys were under a strong pull all the way and won by a margin of 10 lengths from Labord.

COLLEGE ATHLETICS.

There was no swimming race at Syracuse between Jim Fox the younger and Honorable the New England pro, last Saturday. Cold weather and light attendance caused the event and no arrangements for the future were made.

Joe, the former Amherst football and basketball star, who had been at the college for some time, was defeated by a local champion. The fight was a close one, but the local champion won by a margin of 10 lengths from Labord.

YACHTING NOTES.

Cheser C. Russell's sloop Adventure has been laid up at Herndon's Yacht Club at Marblehead closed on Monday.

YACHTING NOTES.

Cheser C. Russell's sloop Adventure has been laid up at Herndon's Yacht Club at Marblehead closed on Monday.

YACHTING NOTES.

Cheser C. Russell's sloop Adventure has been laid up at Herndon's Yacht Club at Marblehead closed on Monday.

YACHTING NOTES.

Cheser C. Russell's sloop Adventure has been laid up at Herndon's Yacht Club at Marblehead closed on Monday.

YACHTING NOTES.

Cheser C. Russell's sloop Adventure has been laid up at Herndon's Yacht Club at Marblehead closed on Monday.

YACHTING NOTES.

Cheser C. Russell's sloop Adventure has been laid up at Herndon's Yacht Club at Marblehead closed on Monday.

YACHTING NOTES.

Cheser C. Russell's sloop Adventure has been laid up at Herndon's Yacht Club at Marblehead closed on Monday.

YACHTING NOTES.

Cheser C. Russell's sloop Adventure has been laid up at Herndon's Yacht Club at Marblehead closed on Monday.

YACHTING NOTES.

Cheser C. Russell's sloop Adventure has been laid up at Herndon's Yacht Club at Marblehead closed on Monday.

YACHTING NOTES.

Cheser C. Russell's sloop Adventure has been laid up at Herndon's Yacht Club at Marblehead closed on Monday.

YACHTING NOTES.

Cheser C. Russell's sloop Adventure has been laid up at Herndon's Yacht Club at Marblehead closed on Monday.

YACHTING NOTES.

Cheser C. Russell's sloop Adventure has been laid up at Herndon's Yacht Club at Marblehead closed on Monday.

YACHTING NOTES.

Cheser C. Russell's sloop Adventure has been laid up at Herndon's Yacht Club at Marblehead closed on Monday.

YACHTING NOTES.

Cheser C. Russell's sloop Adventure has been laid up at Herndon's Yacht Club at Marblehead closed on Monday.

YACHTING NOTES.

Cheser C. Russell's sloop Adventure has been laid up at Herndon's Yacht Club at Marblehead closed on Monday.

YACHTING NOTES.

Cheser C. Russell's sloop Adventure has been laid up at Herndon's Yacht Club at Marblehead closed on Monday.

YACHTING NOTES.

Cheser C. Russell's sloop Adventure has been laid up at Herndon's Yacht Club at Marblehead closed on Monday.

YACHTING NOTES.

Cheser C. Russell's sloop Adventure has been laid up at Herndon's Yacht Club at Marblehead closed on Monday.

YACHTING NOTES.

Cheser C. Russell's sloop Adventure has been laid up at Herndon's Yacht Club at Marblehead closed on Monday.

YACHTING NOTES.

Cheser C. Russell's sloop Adventure has been laid up at Herndon's Yacht Club at Marblehead closed on Monday.

YACHTING NOTES.

Cheser C. Russell's sloop Adventure has been laid up at Herndon's Yacht Club at Marblehead closed on Monday.

YACHTING NOTES.

Cheser C. Russell's sloop Adventure has been laid up at Herndon's Yacht Club at Marblehead closed on Monday.

YACHTING NOTES.

Cheser C. Russell's sloop Adventure has been laid up at Herndon's Yacht Club at Marblehead closed on Monday.